Gujarat CM and Mr. A.M. Naik Inaugurate L&T's Project Management & Power Training Institutes

The L&T Institute of Project Management (IPM) and L&T Power Training Institute (PTI) were inaugurated jointly by Mr. A.M. Naik, Group Executive Chairman, L&T, and Mrs. Anandiben Patel, Chief Minister of Gujarat, on October 26, 2015. Mr. Saurabhbhai Patel, Finance Minister, Govt. of Gujarat, civic body officials and other prominent dignitaries of the city attended the function.

Mrs. Anandiben Patel and Mr. A.M. Naik inaugurate the Power Training Institute.

IPM and PTI are situated in a sprawling green campus behind L&T Knowledge City, Vadodara.

IPM was established in Vadodara to further excellence in project management. With a basket of courses, its knowledge initiatives are emerging as benchmarks in project management field. All 5 phases of the project lifecycle - Initiating, Planning, Execution, Monitoring & Controlling, and Closing - are covered in its pedagogy. IPM has a tie-up with George Washington University, USA, and Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors, and is a registered educational provider of Project Management Institute (PMI), USA.

PTI provides a training platform for power sector professionals. Using case-study, field visits, state-of-the-art simulator training and interactive information sharing by subject experts, PTI grooms a new generation of power project managers. PTI designs, delivers and monitors the customer training programmes which are conducted as part of contractual requirement of each project. It conducts short and long term courses customised as per the target group's needs.
