L&T Oman wins Construction Week Oman ‘Infrastructure Project of the Year’ Award

Larsen & Toubro (Oman) LLC was conferred the prestigious ‘Infrastructure Project of the Year’ award for significantly contributing to the environment and demonstrating construction best practices and technologies, at the 10th annual Construction Week Oman Award ceremony, held virtually on March 31.

L&T Oman was chosen for its work on the solar PV plant with Oman Power and Water Procurement Company. L&T Oman was lauded for focusing on renewable energy and green initiatives that will benefit tens of thousands of households. In addition, the project was delivered on-time and on-budget - despite the difficulties experienced during 2020 and 2021.

The eminent jury comprised Kennedys Law’s Senior Partner, Jamie Kellick, Ithra Dubai’s Executive Director for Asset Management, Lachlan Gyde and Construction Week’s editor, Ashley Williams, who evaluated multiple submissions from 11 categories to find the highly commended and eventual winners of project, individual and company excellence.

Following its win, L&T Oman will now be shortlisted for the ‘Infra Project of the Year’ for the Construction Week Awards 2021 which will take place on 8 December.

L&T Oman was also ‘Highly Commended’ for its HSE efforts on the Shatti Al Qurum Hotel & Apartment Project.

Construction Week is the Middle East’s largest construction and contracting portal.
